AGLAYA (Aglaja)

Directed by Krisztina Deák (2012), colour, 116 min

The story is about the members of a refugee family of circus artists, their enforced interdependence, their eventual break-up and the joy and curse of belonging together - all seen from the viewpoint of the young girl Aglaya. The story is about the escape of the Hungarian-Romanian family of the circus artists from the Ceausescu dictatorship in Romania to the West in the early 1980s and trying to figure out the exotic ways for survival. The daughter, however contradictory to the practice, later finds herself trapped in the similar critical position and just like her mother, becomes "The Woman with the Hair of Steel".

Painting Exhibition by Jenő Balogh at HICC

PLANETARY CONSCIOUSNESS

Oil paintings by Jenő Balogh

"My paintings depict a world without people, warning that this is going to happen if we continue this way of exploitation to the Earth. I mostly paint with blue colour that is the colour of Planet Earth and also the colour of Soul. However, I also use red that is the colour of Mars, a lifeless planet. For me painting is a token of energy, coming from my soul."

quotes Balogh

Jenő Balogh's ideology and efforts try to bring-out the real aspects of humanity through his works. Mother Teresa, the woman of love as addressed by Balogh, is the inspiration behind his works. With the aim to introduce Peace and reflect on Love around the World, we present this remarkable artist, whose purpose is to raise awareness for Mother Teresa's legacy and to establish World Charity Day.
